MOSQUITO ABATEMENT

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

NOTHING takes the fun out of an evening BBQ like a bunch of pesky mosquitos. Here are some things homeowners can do to minimize mosquitos.

Since mosquitos lay eggs in stagnant or slow-moving water, walk your property frequently to check for standing water. Areas that collect water but may be overlooked include clogged gutters, garbage containers, aluminum cans and old tires.

Every two days, change the water in bird baths, wading pools, pottery, pet dishes, etc.

Mosquitos rest during the day on vegetation. Make your yard less hospitable to mosquitoes by mowing regularly, and keeping weeds down.

EPA-approved insecticides registered as effective against adult and larval mosquitoes may also be used. A light application around foundations, shrubs, and grasses will keep adults from resting in these areas. If you decide to spray, remember to keep people and pets out of your yard for a reasonable amount of time as instructed on the package, as the chemicals can be harmful.
